Office of the Northern District Attorney (Middlesex)	Community Based Justice	Schools and Communities in Middlesex County	Community Based Justice, established in 1991 as a response to a marked increase in youth violence, is a program that brings together schools, law enforcement, DYS, DSS, and probation in a concerted effort to share information about identified high-risk youth whose behavior poses a threat to their school, neighborhoods, and communities. The program creates a venue for sharing information, coordinating services and, most important, keeping track of each youth passing through the criminal justice system. Through local CBJ meetings, the District Attorney's Office is able to proactively identify and respond to issues of importance to schools, communities, and law enforcement.	Robyn Pontremoli	(508) 875-4141
Office of the Northern District Attorney (Middlesex)	Juvenile Firesetters Intervention Program("JFIP")	Youth Ages 3-17	This collaborative program lead by the District Attorney includes the active participation of the Statewide Coalition for Juvenile Firesetters Programs, the State Fire Marshall's Office, local police and fire departments, the Courts, social service agencies, and the Massachusetts FAIR plan. Youth are referred to the program as a disposition of a Court case, as a participant in a diversion program, or as a referral from the community through parents, schools, housing authorities, or public safety agencies. All children referred to the program will be taught the Fire Safety Education Curriculum. If it is determined that the child is in need of some psychological counseling, this will also be incorporated into the treatment plan.	Robyn Pontremoli	(508) 875-4141

Office of the Suffolk County District Attorney	Community Based Juvenile Justice	Middle and High School Students	Since its inception in 1994, CBJJ has worked as an inter-agency forum to reduce violence in Suffolk County. CBJJ was established to reduce juvenile crime, to increase school safety, and to develop innovative intervention strategies for juveniles who are at risk for developing delinquent behavior. Regularly convened meetings are held with school personnel, area police, social workers from the police department, MBTA police, juvenile probation officers, Department of Youth Services representatives, Department of Social Services representatives, the Director of Alternative Education, and the District Attorney's Office. At these meetings, juveniles in need of assistance are discussed and appropriate interventions are recommended. Interventions vary according to the scope and nature of the juvenile's issues. The progress of the child is then tracked by the participating agency with which the juvenile is most involved, or by the agency to which the juvenile is referred.	Amy Cris	(617) 619-4225

RUNAWAYS
Worcester Police Dept.	Runaway Resolution	All Juveniles	In the program, a statistical manager supplies the Juvenile Division with a list of reported runaway/missing juveniles who have been reported missing twice within a calendar year. The juvenile's name is cross-checked for any DYS, DSS or court-involved situation to which the juvenile is a party. The program contacts parents/guardians to inform them of available assistance. If requested, a follow-up home visit is provided.	Juvenile Division	(508) 799-8600
SCHOOL SAFETY
Office of the Middle District Attorney (Worcester)	District Attorney's Community and School Project	Educators, students, parents, and professionals who deal directly with children and adolescents	The program conducts proactive training on a variety of legal topics for educators and school-based professionals who deal directly with children and young adults. Presentations are made by experienced members of the District Attorney's staff, including prosecutors and victim-witness advocates. Trainings are effective because the speakers offer real-life, first-hand experiences in matters dealing with child abuse, domestic and teen dating violence, drug and alcohol prosecutions, gang issues, elder abuse, school safety, and the inner workings of the criminal justice system. The program also provides prevention education for students, primarily in middle and high school. Assistant District Attorneys conduct mock trials and lectures to students on a variety of legal topics.	M. Julie Mahoney	(508) 792-0214

VIOLENCE
Fitchburg Public Schools	Peer Mediation Program	1st - 12 Grade Students	The program includes peer mediation training for all schools. Teams of peer mediators at each school are trained in conflict resolution skills. The peer mediators are coordinated by professional staff members who schedule and monitor the mediation sessions. The program has direct and pass-through effects on the mediators and the disputants, where conflict resolution skills are learned by both parties.	Thomas Lamey	(978) 345-3223
Fitchburg Public Schools	Responsive Classroom	Kindergarten - 8th Grade Students	The goal of Responsive Classroom is to build a school-wide model for creating a climate where responsibility for one's social interaction and academic performance is internalized. The program has six components which provide for integration of social and academic learning throughout the school day. These components become part of the classroom routine. The routine promotes concern for all members of the school in developing social competence and academic achievement. When employed by a critical mass of teachers within the building, the synergy has a tangible impact on the school climate. It is a long-range, multiple grade approach to improving the school's climate, reducing violence, fostering character, and positive social development, while promoting academic growth.
